This restaurant serves lunch set menus, such as BEAN CURD SZECHUAN STYLE, DOUBLE COOKED PORK, and PRAWN in CHILI SAUCE, etc. Each set costs 1000yen. I chose DOUBLE COOKED PORK. The main dish is served with soup, pickles, and white rice. One portion of the main was smaller than I had expected, and it tasted salty. The good point was that they gave us a huge amount of rice in a large bowl ("Oh-hitsu") - rice for 3 cups of rice bowl, and another Oh-hitsu was free. If you love rice, it may be very good. Lunch time is 11a.m. to 3p.m.

I ate lunch here. On the menu were "today's special" fried chicken with grated radish and black vinegar, and there was also this restaurant's specialty, mizutaki (a kind of nabe, a Japanese style hot pot cooked at the table). A yuan yaki (fish and chicken flavored with soy sauce, sweet sake and sake) of a thick whitefish, rice, miso soup, pickled vegetables, small bowl, dessert (annin tofu) were all for 1050 yen. Volume of the dishes was normal. The fish was flavored with miso that was a little bit salty. The dishes weren't especially delicious, but I guess their specialty, mizutaki, might be delicious. There is a big room in which about 30 people can have a party. The room is isolated from outside the restaurant or other spaces of the restaurant, so a party can get a little noisy.

Bunmeido Sakan Le Café is in the back of the Yokohama Bunmeido Isezakicho Store, which is located near the entrance of Isezaki Mall, next to Matsuzakaya, and diagonally across from the Yokohama Curry Museum. Here, you can enjoy desserts such as castella (sponge cake) and northern European tea favored by the royal family of Sweden. I don't think there is a menu in English. In the calm atmosphere of the café, it may be more relaxing to enjoy an easygoing conversation rather than partying. It seems customers come in small groups, or even by themselves. I went to the café at around 5:00pm, and there weren't many people at that time.

I recommend the lunch buffet rather than dinner here at Junkaikakushinkan. There are more than 20 kinds of dishes available at all times, and yet at reasonable prices for a restaurant in Chinatown (Saturdays and Sundays are a bit more expensive). Dishes are somewhat strong flavored, but are very good. There wasn't a menu written in English, but I saw a group of Westerners at the restaurant.

58 Kakiyasu Sanjaku Sanzun Bashi

Japanese buffet (柿安三尺三寸箸)

3F Yokohama Bay Quarter, 1-10 Kinko-cho, Kanagawa-ku Yokohama-shi

Tel. 045-450-6770Open 11:00am-11:00pmSeat 114 Budget average: ¥1,680-¥2,580

This is a Japanese dining restaurant in buffet style (eat-all-you-want for 90 minutes). Dishes in the buffet are different at lunchtime and dinnertime. They have various foods focused on 'Health' and 'Freshness', such as selected ingredients from the Shonan area and detoxifying dishes. They have various menu selections such as salads and desserts, needless to say Japanese dishes such as sushi, odango, and kuzumochi. I personally recommend their 'hand-made Caspian yogurt'. It was very delicious with acacia honey. The restaurant has a sober atmosphere.

59 KUA'AINA • KUA'AINA

Hawaiian Hamburger restaurant(KUA'AINA・クア・アイナ)

4F Yokohama Bay Quarter, 1-10 Kinko-cho, Kanagawa-ku Yokohama-shi

Access 5 min. walk from Yokohama Station East ExitTel. 045-450-7202Open 11:00am-11:00pmBudget average: ¥1,000-¥2,000

It is Hawaii's No.1 hamburger & sandwich restaurant. You can select from 3 kinds of bread: Kaiser roll, multi-grain wheat, and hearth rye. I recommend the sandwich with 'avocado', or 'mahi mahi'(white fish fillet). The food is quite hearty. *There is also a shop in Yokohama Akarenga (Red Brick Warehouse) #2.

60 Italian Restaurant portofino

Italian (ポルトフィーノ 横浜ポルタ店)

Yokohama Porta, 2-16-B1 Takashima, Nishi-ku Yokohama-shi

Access East exit Yokohama StationTel. 045-450-3747Open 11:00am-11:00pm(L.O. 10:00 pm) Budget Lunch¥1,029

I had a lunch plate (1,029yen), which you can select from 3 weekly pasta specials. The pasta was served with focaccia (Italian bread), salad, and soup. You can also select coffee (hot or iced) or tea (hot or iced) to be served with the lunch plate. I think it is a very reasonable lunch menu. Needless to say the food was very good, their hospitality was very nice. The attendant came over to fill in my glass of water every time it was nearly empty. (But this is maybe nothing at all.)

The restaurant is an open-air restaurant (although it's underground) with an open atmosphere. They also have various selections of pasta and desserts other than the lunch plate.

61 nest

Café (ネスト)

Lumine Yokohama 1F, 2-16-1 Takashima, Nishi-ku, Yokohama

Access 1 min. walk from JR Yokohama Station East ExitTel. 045-441-4147 Open 10:00am-9:00pm(L.O.8:30pm)Seat 40 Budget average: ¥500

Nest is located in a back space of Yokohama Lumine on the 1st floor. The cafe is not large, however, it was filled with women customers enjoying themselves. On the menu were originally blended herb tea, coffee, tea and cocktails. I ordered an herb tea and a tea chiffon cake. The herb tea came in a tea pot, there was enough tea in the teapot to fill 3 small teacups. The cake was big, soft, not too sweet and was delicious. There were sandwiches on the menu, so it may be nice to stop by when you are a bit hungry or tired from walking around in the area. The menu on the table wasn't written in English; however the menu on the blackboard on the counter had some of it in English.

The café is located inside a mansion built by Antonin Raymond, a pupil of Frank Lloyd Wright, in 1925. They serve coffee for 400 yen and cake set for 700 yen. Located on an overlook to the Yokohama harbor, the café is in the lap of a grove and surrounded by great views. If you are thinking "I want to go sightseeing the neighborhood area since I'm getting on the Minato Mirai Line," we recommend that you stop by here, at "Ehrismann-Tei" or "Enoki-Tei" which is located inside a mansion nearby. You can enjoy an afternoon tea time at the "Enoki-Tei."
